

The Two Friends

Chona Lee F. Fababeir

On a sunny Monday, the sun rises brightly. Charlie set off his alarm clock for six o'clock in the morning. She feels warm and happy. She gets up on her bed and eats her breakfast. After eating breakfast, she took a bath and prepared for school. On her way to school, she hears the birds chirping and sees the flowers bloom. It was a perfect day for fun and joy under the clear blue sky. Along the way, she saw her friend and classmate, Shanella. They both go to Rosario Ocampo Elementary School. Seeing their teacher and fellow students makes them both joyful and excited. Their teacher informed them that they are among the best pupils in their class, which makes them both delighted. They actively participated in their lessons and shared with their classmates what they knew. In the afternoon, they helped their classmates who found it difficult to read and shared with them what they knew. They are very supportive of their classmates when it comes to learning the lessons that their teacher taught them. They also share their food with some of their classmates who are less fortunate. They sat together on the bench and ate their lunch - a sandwich and chocolate.

After their class, Charlie and Shanella play together with their other friends and classmates. They both live on Callejon Street, so they always go home together. They love to race their bikes in Kalayaan Park. Charlie will chase Shanella, and then Shanella will chase Charlie. At night, they will rush home and chat on the Internet. They always do their household chores and homework. Charlie and Shanella are very good friends.
